

MenloHacks is committed to staging an energetic, yet respectful, safe, and comfortable learning and creative environment for all of its participants. We will enforce a zero tolerance policy for any form of harm or harassment, any physical or technological vandalism, or any other conduct that endangers any participant's safety, comfort, or opportunity to succeed. Any such action will be grounds for immediate expulsion from the Menlo campus. Violators shall arrange their homeward transportation at their own expense, regardless of the hour of day or night.

MenloHacks also assumes no legal responsibility for its participants. By signing below, you release Menlo School, its campus community (including, but not limited to, its administration, faculty, staff, students, and parents), the MenloHacks organizers, event sponsors (including, but not limited to Palantir, Entefy, Namecheap, MIT Launch, Doughbies) , and Major League Hacking from any and all such liability.

I, _____, have read the statement above. I am thrilled to participate in MenloHacks on April 16-17, 2016 and will comply with these conduct guidelines to help foster the best possible experience for myself and all participants. I agree to bring all requested registration and identification information and understand that I will not be admitted if I fail to do so.

Participant Signature _____

Date _____ Email _____ Phone _____

I, _____, grant permission to _____ to participate in MenloHacks on April 16-17, 2016. I have read the statement above and we agree to comply with its guidelines.

Parent/Guardian Signature _____

Date _____ Email _____ Phone _____